

Shareholder Rights Directive II - Securities Services Cost Disclosure

December, 2020

With respect to Article 3d of the Shareholder Rights Directive II (EU) 2017/828 (“SRD II”), this disclosure sets out the charges for certain services provided by the Securities Services business of J.P. Morgan¹. Such services may include the services stipulated within Chapter 1a of SRD II, which includes shareholder identification (Article 3a), the transmission of information (Article 3b) and facilitating the exercise of shareholder rights (Article 3c) (“SRD II Services”).

Generally SRD II Services are included within J.P. Morgan’s safekeeping fee and as a result, there is no additional charge, however, certain aspects of the SRD II Services are subject to administrative charges and the standard of such charges are listed below.² Such charges will apply where J.P. Morgan is acting as an intermediary and is required to provide such SRD II Services.

SHAREHOLDER IDENTIFICATION

- J.P. Morgan does not levy any additional charge to clients with respect to requests to disclose shareholder information.

CORPORATE ACTIONS (OTHER THAN MEETINGS)

- Although notification of corporate actions and processing of client instructions, to the extent applicable, is included in J.P. Morgan’s safekeeping fee, J.P. Morgan may levy additional charge where a client’s instructions require repair and / or manual processing.
- The standard charge is $25 for repairing and/or manually processing a non-STP client instruction.

MEETINGS

- Notification of shareholder meetings is included in J.P. Morgan’s safekeeping fee.
- With respect to votes, J.P. Morgan operates a two-tier pricing structure for Simple or Complex Markets as such markets are set out in the fee schedule agreed between J.P. Morgan and the client.
- Complex Markets are charged at the higher rate to allow for additional costs incurred by J.P. Morgan in processing the client vote which includes:
 - Share registration / re-registration
 - Power of attorney service / market documentation
 - Physical attendance / meeting registration / ticket numbers
 - Completion and submissions of physical proxy cards
- An additional fee is levied to arrange for clients to vote in-person
